Thursday, May 7, 9:00am – 12:00noon

The New Workers Compensation procedures

New Workers Compensation procedures have been instituted and they might as well be written to try and confuse people. A new form has been to begin the process and there are other steps that have to be followed correctly. This session will give you a clue on how the new procedures work

Thursday, May 21, 9:00am – 12:00noon

Developing alliances

There is always a need to develop alliances. Prospective allies may include other unions, various community groups, Green/Labor, and other possible alliances. This session will focus on strategies that could be made, how to make them and how to effectively make them work.

Friday, June 5, 9:00am – 12:00noon [note new date]

Navigating the web for our Safety & Health

How can we use the internet to research OSHA standards and other Safety & Health information? What is out there on the web that could better equip us to be Safety & Health activists, including ways to use the OSHA web site? What are the other sites that are out there? Ever hear of NIOSH or WorkSafeBC? In this session will be working on classroom computers to find out.

Those other laws we could use

We will study laws and standards that are not directly occupational safety & health related, including laws such as the Family Medical Leave Act, Local Building Codes and Local Health Codes. This session will examine ways in which these laws and standards could be used and how to use them.
